$1,153 NOW SOUGHT FOR THEY. M. C. A.

$3647 of $4800 Budget Secured in First Day of Drive

RESULTS BY NOON

Dinner at Central Christian Church Is Jubilant Scene

Workers in the Y. M. C. A. drive for subscriptions for the $4,800 budget wore cheerful countenances when they met for a noon-day dinner at the Christian church Monday. They were still more cheerful when the reports had been turned in and it was realized that about three-fourths of the $4,800 budget needed had been secured in the one day.

While the dinner was in progress and captains were figuring up their totals, inspiring campaign songs were sung such as:

What's the matter with the "Go Getters"?
They're all right.
What's the matter with the "Go Getters"?
They're out of sight.
They're full of vigor and full of vim;
They're into the game to help us win.
What's the matter with the "Go Getters"?
They're all right.

There were innumerable verses of this of which the "Live Yers," C. W. Ingledue, W. A. Horn, H. A. Finlay, David Black, Secretary Kelley and Ralph Van Hoorebeke, the pianist, were the theme.

Two other songs were sung with equal enthusiasm. One, labelled Song No. 6 to the tune of "The Long, Long Trail," had the following words:

There's a great big aim extending
Into the plan of our "Y,"
With the service never ending
And the ideals high.
There's a fine, big chance of helping
To make the plans all come true,
And the way that you can help the best—
The long, long green for you.

No. 6, sung to the tune of "Tipperary," ran like this:

It's a sure thing we'll put it over,
It's a sure thing, you know;
It's a sure thing we'll put it over,
For we're up and on the go!
Will you help us? And be a booster
For the old Y. M. C. A.
It's a sure, sure thing we'll put it over—
We'll get there. HOO-RAY!

All this was a fine preparation for the reports, which created more enthusiasm. They were as follows:

Go Getters

Team No. 1, Haynes, 19 subscriptions, totalling $704
No. 3, Wright, 18 subscriptions, totalling 212
No. 5, Geiger, 25 subs., totalling 201

Leaving a balance to be secured between noon Monday and noon today of $1,353.

No small credit in promoting the pep of the meeting was due to A. H. Beisner, general secretary, of Pomona, who presided and led the singing. H. O. Hill, state secretary, was also present and helped with the work.

CHAPERON CLUB IS PROPOSED BY MRS. SHAW

Glendale Delegate Makes Suggestion to Probation Officers in Convention

A conference was held recently by the Probation Officers' association of Southern California, in Los Angeles, at the Hall of Records, and was attended by juvenile welfare workers of various organizations, as well as by the probation officers and their deputies. Mrs. Hartley Shaw, a member of the probation committee of the juvenile court of this county, was present and reports a helpful and constructive program.

Among the most interesting discussions was one concerning the evening amusements of young people. For a number of months, Mrs. Shaw has been formulating a plan for a "Chaperon club" in Glendale. When it was explained to the conference, one of the probation officers said that if such a system of chaperoning young people were adopted throughout California the probation officers would all lose their jobs. This plan is being presented to the Parent-Teacher associations of Glendale, and it is sincerely hoped by those interested in the welfare of the young people of our community that it will be approved and adopted.

Informal discussions of the juvenile court work were led by Miss Louise Marlow, deputy probation officer, and by Dr. Miriam Van Waters, referee of the juvenile court. Mr. Carl May, supervisor of the adult department, gave a survey of the adult probation department.

Mr. Corbell, of the Preston Industrial school for boys, at Ione, explained the difficulties of finding employment for the graduates of that institution, and stated that at present he has a list of 275 business men of Los Angeles who are willing to extend a brotherly helping hand to these lads who are trying to "come back" and re-instate themselves in society.

At the evening session a dinner was served at the Union League club, and representatives of several welfare organizations spoke—among them Father Lucy of the Catholic Juvenile Protective bureau, Brigadier Boyd of the Salvation Army, and Dr. Pomeroy, health officer of Los Angeles county. Judge Weyl of the juvenile court was the speaker of the evening.

Everyone present felt that the conference was a decided step toward harmony and unity among the various organizations and an inspiration to those concerned with constructive work among the unfortunate young people whose homes have somehow failed.

WOODLANDS GAS LINE ATTACKED

Miss Winifred F. Marr of Verdugo Canyon Seeks to Stop Work

ASKS FOR INJUNCTION

Files Application in Superior Court Against So. Cal. Gas and Councilmen

Application for an injunction has been made by Miss Winifred F. Marr of Verdugo canyon in the superior court against the Southern California Gas company and the members of the city council, which in reality means the city of Glendale; in an effort to have the action of the council members and the gas company in connection with the establishment of the gas distributing system in Verdugo Woodlands — municipal improvement district No. 6—declared null and void.

Miss Marr is further trying to enjoin the city from levying any tax upon property for the purpose of paying the principal or interest on the gas bonds, to enjoin the city from approving any demands of the Southern California Gas company for the payment of work done on the contract executed on September 14, 1922, and also to enjoin the city treasurer from paying any money for the execution of said contract.

At Monday night's council meeting City Attorney Hartley Shaw was instructed to represent the various city officials in any action taken against them in this matter.

PET DOG INFECTS OWNER WITH RABIES

Mrs. M. H. Carber of North Columbus Is Taking Treatment

After becoming infected from the bite of a dog that was suffering from rabies, Mrs. M. H. Carber, 1356 North Columbus street, is a firm believer that dogs should be muzzled. Monday afternoon, after receiving her third Pasteur treatment she told officials of the health department that she is a firm believer in the ordinance.

Mrs. Carber was the owner of a Collie dog, "Rex." The dog had been well cared for since a puppy. Several months ago the dog got in a fight with a stray dog and received a bite that became infected with rabies. Mrs. Carber attempted to give the dog treatment. While giving this treatment saliva from the dog's mouth dripped on her hand and infected an open cut.

The dog had to be killed by a veterinarian. An examination of his brain showed a serious infection of rabies. Mrs. Carber, who is confined to her bed due to the infection, was notified and she and her sister, Mrs. Marjory H. Beresford, who had also received a bite from the dog, are taking the Pasteur treatment.

Mrs. Beresford said Monday, "My sister and I always thought that the rabies scare was foolish, we did not think that there was such a disease. We know now that there is such a disease but my sister has to suffer because of our disbelief.

"When the muzzle ordinance was adopted we were very bitter against it as we though that it was unkind to animals. Now we are heartily in favor of it."

GLENDALIANS WIN IN TEXAS OIL FIELD

500-barrel Well Struck at Eliasville, Texas, by Local Syndicate

A 500-barrel flowing oil well has just been struck on the property at Eliasville, Tex., owned by a syndicate of which W. T. Ashton, 128 South Maryland avenue, and a number of other residents of Glendale, are members. A telegram to this effect was received by Mr. Ashton at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

According to the telegram the well is down 3700 feet and only one foot of the oil sand had been penetrated. It is the intention of the company to continue the well to a point 90 feet in the oil sand, at which time it is expected the well will be flowing at least 5000 barrels a day. The oil that is being secured is 34 gravity, and is piped directly from the well to the refinery, 12 miles away. So high is the gravity of the oil that the state has forbidden the storage of it in tanks at the well.

Previously to striking oil a terrific gas pressure was encountered, 5,000,000,000 cubic feet of gas a day being secured. This pressure made it almost impossible for further drilling. Now that the oil has been encountered no effort is being made to retain the gas. When the gas was struck, the company was compelled to move the engines several hundred feet farther from the well for safety purposes.

The syndicate owning this well is known as the Eliasville Pool. The syndicate owns 20 acres of land, and the well was drilled in the center of the piece. The intention is to sink a well on each of the five acres. No little excitement has been caused by the bringing in of this well, and further encouraging reports are expected hourly. Eliasville, where this well is located, is about 12 miles from Breckenridge, which is noted for its oil production.

He expressed his entire approval of the plans of the Knights of Columbus relative to the building of a parochial school to accommodate 900 pupils and to be ready for use the first of September, also of the plans for the K. of C. clubhouse and membership drive. This is very pleasing to Harry Girard, who is boosting for both projects.

Dinner to Be Given Nov. 14 to Push Work

In response to invitations sent to women members of the Glendale chamber of commerce to attend a meeting at the chamber Monday afternoon and arrange for a women's forum to be given some time next month, a small group of women presented themselves.

They were called to order by Secretary Rhoades who explained that 90 members or about ten percent of the total chamber membership are women and he was anxious they should more fully participate in the activities of the organization. To that end he had sent out the invitations.

It was agreed that the forum should take the form of a dinner and program to be given the evening of November 14, and that committees for reception of guests, menu, decorations and program should be named, the meeting authorizing Dr. Russell to appoint same, and agreeing to met again to complete arrangements next Friday night at 7 p. m.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Southern California was to be the political battleground of the state during the greater part of the present week.

Votes south of the Tehachapi were scheduled to listen to and to entertain all of the candidates for major offices before next Saturday.

Friend W. Richardson, Republican candidate for governor, headed southward after his brief visit to San Francisco Friday, rested a bit yesterday and today was resuming his active campaign.

He will speak at Pasadena, Los Angeles, Bakersfield, Santa Barbara and numerous smaller places during the next few days and then is expected to take one more trip north before election.

Thomas Lee Woolwine, Richardson's Democratic opponent, who toured the Southland all of last week, will complete his campaign in Southern California during the present week. That Woolwine is to make a serious effort to combat whatever show of strength Richardson's visit may bring forth was indicated by the fact that several of his lieutenants from San Francisco have left for the south to aid in the campaign there. Woolwine is expected to make one more visit to San Francisco before election.

Hiram W. Johnson, who was in the San Joaquin valley most of last week campaigning for election to the senate on the Republican ticket, has crossed the Tehachapi and will be in the south until next Saturday.

William K. Pearson, his Democratic opponent, has followed close on Johnson's heels and expects to remain in Southern California from now until the election.

Senator Samuel Shortridge, now in the San Joaquin valley speaking in behalf of Richardson and Johnson, will join Senator Johnson in Southern California during the week, it was announced.

Although interest in the Richardson-Woolwine race is running high, betting commissioners here reported a scarcity of bets and no reliable odds on the race could be obtained. Most bets were privately laid at odds determined entirely by the sentiments of the bettors.

MY OLD KENTUCKY HOME MAKES HIT AT GLENDALE

"Weep no more my Honey."

Coming along at break-neck speed in a field surrounded with class is "My Old Kentucky Home," one of the season's greatest human dramas of mother love named after the famous ballad which is at the Glendale theatre.

"My Old Kentucky Home" will make your blood tingle with excitement, will arouse your sympathy and give you an insight into a real southern romance such as you only read about. Its a story of the south told in all the homely spirit that only southern stories can reveal and is enacted by an all-star cast headed by Monte Blue, one of the country's favorite screen actors.

At 88, This Football Fan Takes 25 Relatives to See Iowa Defeat Yale

Mrs. D. N. Richardson is probably the greatest grandma rooter the gridiron game has ever known. She hired a special car to take more than two dozen of her relatives to witness the Yale-Iowa game in the Yale Bowl at New Haven. She helped root her Iowa boys to victory, but afterwards she said she got as many heartaches as thrills out of the game when she saw the players laid out on the field after rough plays. However, Grandma Richardson says she will go to see Iowa beat Yale next year. She says she always was an optimist.

OLYMPIC TEAM TO PLAY GAME AT PASADENA

Aside from his own trials and tribulations, the game that is interesting Coach Gloomy Gus Henderson of the University of Southern California the most this year, is not the New Year's battle. For he says that is still too far away to think about. It is not the California-Stanford battle, for he firmly believes that there is more interest in the California-U. S. C. game this season. But Henderson's choice for a contest of interest, science and wonder, is the Armistice day game at Pasadena between the Olympic club of San Francisco and the Multnomah club of Portland.

The Olympic boys have one of the most picturesque coaches in the game, according to Henderson in the person of "Fighting Bob" Evans; they have the best team in their history, with a line made up of California and Stanford stars of the past, and one or two all-American selections.

REV. COLE DRAWS LESSON FROM HEALING

Sunday morning's sermon by Rev. C. A. Cole of Central Christian church was based on the healing of the palsied man who, "borne of four" was let down through the roof at the feet of Jesus. "Jesus showed that forgiveness of sins and healing go together," said the speaker, "when in answer to the Pharisees' 'reasoning together' on his saying to the palsied man, 'thy sins be forgiven thee,' replied, 'which is easier to say to this man, thy sins be forgiven thee, or to say 'take up thy bed and walk.'" But in order that ye may know that the Son of Man has power on earth to forgive sins, (He saith unto the man sick of the palsy,) "I say unto thee, arise, take up thy bed and go to thine own house." And the fact that the man immediately obeyed the command showed that Christ could do one of the things as easily as he could the other.

"The paralytic was brought to be healed physically, not spiritually. Plenty of people today ask to be rid of diseases their sins have fastened upon them, but say nothing about sins. Sin and sickness, like two great monsters, have stalked up and down, arm in arm, since the days of Adam, but they met their master in the incident of today's lesson.

"Christ masters disease only as we let Him master the sin that is in our hearts. Quit your meanness and the results of it will stop. Selfish aims bring many ills.

"This man was 'borne of four.' It is wonderful what four men can do by concerted effort. Try it some time in your church work. These four men were determined to get to the Christ with their helpless burden. The doors were barred to them by the pressing throngs of people. Nothing daunted, they climbed to the roof, tore up the tiles until they had made a sufficient opening, then lowered the sick man to the feet of the Master. It was an unusual expedient but it got the desired results.

"Note that the Pharisees 'reasoned' among themselves. That kind of 'reasoning,' that is, fault finding, is a mighty easy job and one that many people are adept in. But people who do things are not the fault finders or 'knockers.' They do not make up the ever present 'anvil chorus.'

"We do not question the ability of a watchmaker to repair one of his own time pieces. Why should we question the ability and authority of Jesus to make whole the diseased body of a man, God's handiwork?

"Christ has the power to transform our own disease-warped souls into perfect accord if we will but let him."

A feature of the morning service in addition to the beautiful anthem by the choir was a song, "God's Telephone," by C. H. Epps, one of the city's efficient patrolmen. He has a mellow, sympathetic voice and his rendition of the beautiful song was very fine.

In the evening, after the regular "sing" Rev. Cole answered the question, "Does the Bible teach eternal punishment of the wicked?" The answer was "yes." Jesus said, more than once, that the righteous would go to eternal reward, and the wicked to eternal punishment. Much as we may wish to do away with the sad fact of everlasting woe to be brought upon us by our own sins, we cannot overthrow the edict of a just God.

The evening sermon theme was "Will Morality Save a Man?" The story of Cornelius, the just centurion who prayed daily to the God he feared and loved, gave alms and instructed his household and dependents wisely in things pertaining to Jehovah, was cited as that of a moral man to whom God sent Peter to show him what yet he lacked to become a Christian. And Peter's earlier saying, "There is no other name under heaven than that of Jesus the Christ whereby we must be saved" was quoted as an emphatic refutation that any man could be saved by morality alone. He must acknowledge Christ as his Savior and serve Him all the days of his life to merit salvation.

MISS NEURBURG IS HONORED BY S. O. S.

Miss Lelee Neuerburg was the honored guest last night at a party when the girls of the S. O. S. class of Central Christian church gave her a kitchen shower and Hallowe'en party. Miss Neuerburg will become the bride of Mac Leonard of Glendale during the fall.

The affair was held in the S. O. S. class room which was appropriately decorated in the orange and black colors of the season.

The evening was spent in games, during which a large basket made into a big yellow pumpkin was brought in and set before the honored guest. She then opened it and found within many useful and pretty gifts for the kitchen. The girls showered her with rice and confetti and extended their good wishes.

A mock wedding was held, the wedding march being played by Miss Alice Mercer. The bridal party consisted of the bride, Miss Ina McConnell; groom, Miss Ramona Ryan; minister, Miss Nell Leggett; bridesmaids, Miss Ruby Eubanks, Miss Rose Jennings; maid of honor, Miss Evelyn Walker, and ring bearer, Miss Evelyn Ashman. This affair caused much luaghter.

At the close of the evening, refreshments of pumpkin and apple pie, doughnuts, coffee and apples were served.

Those in the party were, Mrs. A. A. Smith, class teacher, and the Misses Lelee Neuerburg, Nell Leggett, Peggy Fenton, Fern Peters, Frances Musser, Beatrice Bolen, Hazel Neuerburg, Garnet Peters, Evelyn Ashman, Ramona Ryan, Peggy Gibson, Eula Stevenson, Naomi Lucas, Grace Verdugo, Rose Jennings, Helen Green, Ina McConnell, Alice Mercer, Evelyn Walker, Ruby Eubanks, Madeline Montgomery, Patsy Medyett, Lillian Tracy, and Billy Rhoades.

OLD HOMESTEAD NOW AT THE T. D. & L.

"The Old Homestead" with Theodore Roberts and cast of Paramount favorites is the big headline attraction at the T. D. & L. theater today. "The Old Homestead" is perhaps the most beloved of American dramas and has held the attention of the public for over fifty years. In this its screen presentation, it is a veritable masterpiece and Theodore Roberts' characterization of Uncle Josh will never be forgotten. In Ralph Allan's own words, "The Old Homestead" will live forever in the hearts and minds of the great American public. It takes one back to the rosy days of youth—depicts the old barn dance, the watermelon patches, the hayrides, moonlight on the old farm, and so much of the real life of America that not to see it is really having overlooked a privilege and lost one of the finest entertainments ever offered anyone anywhere.

CARNATION LODGE OF REBEKAHS TO MEET

The Carnation Rebekah lodge will give a real old-fashioned party this evening at the I. O. O. F. hall on West Broadway. A musical program has been arranged and old-fashioned games will be enjoyed by all.

One of the main features on the menu will be pumpkin pie, saying nothing of sandwiches, doughnuts and last but not least, a real good cup of coffee.

Everyone is asked to come early, and bring friends. The entertainment committee includes Mrs. Carl Schwitters, Mrs. Leonard Pease and Mrs. Evelyn.

PROGRESSIVES OF PENDROY'S GIVE PARTY

Ghosts Walk, Witches Ride and Masked Devotees Assemble

Ghosts walk and witches ride! For the night of Hallowe'en is here. And one of the jolliest affairs of the season was the "tacky" party given last night by Pendroy's Progressive club in the auditorium of the chamber of commerce.

The evening from beginning to end was one laugh after another. The spacious auditorium was arrayed with festoons of organge and black crepe paper and needless to say theco stumes worn were clever and extremely funny. The ghosts came masked and not until about o'clock did the identity of many become known.

About 9:30 four very spooky ghosts came walking in and they had the entire crowd guesisng who they were. Their names did not become known until a late hour when they were captured and their false faces removed. They proved to be Miss Marie Clennin, Miss Helen Kapus, Miss Drake and Miss Florence Pierson.

Mr. Pendroy made a very good policeman, but he seemed to get thin "all of a sudden" when a crowd grabbed him and removed the beautiful yellow pillow from under his coat. Mrs. Pendroy was "all dolled up" the shades of her costume running from a delicate pink to black, lavender, red and green.

A grand march was held early in the evening, and judges awarded prizes for the best "get-up." Mrs. Ruth Van Court won first prize, a Krazy Cat, and George Karr won a noisy tin horn. These were presented by a jolly Santa Claus, better known as George Damon.

The evening for the most part was spent in dancing, music being furnished by Jerry Parker's orchestra. Delicious apple cider was served from an old-fashioned keg. About 11 o'clock everyone was asked to get in line and march thru the kitchen cafeteria style, where all were served doughnuts and coffee. This was followed by old-fashioned popcorn balls.

Pendroy's Progressive club is composed of all the employes of the Pendroy store, and they are just like one big family, in for a good time in which everyone takes part. Last night they invited their friends and families, making a total of about 100 present.

CLOTH FOR POLISHING.

A cloth to polish nickel or brass is a most convenient way to achieve the desired end of shining cleanliness, and it has the added attraction of having been made by the blind.

GIRL SWIMMERS WHO SET NEW WORLD'S RECORDS, ONE BETTERING MARK FOR MEN

This photograph of Miss Gertrude Ederle, representing the Women's Swimming association of New York (at left) and Miss Sybil Bauer of the Illinois Athletic club, Chicago, was made after their recent record-breaking performances in Bermuda. Miss Ederle broke the 150-yard free style record by covering the distance in 1 minute, 45 seconds. Miss Bauer established a new record for 400 yards backstroke, her time being 6 minutes, 24 2-5 seconds. Miss Bauer eclipsed the mark set by Harold Krueger of Honolulu. This was the first time a girl ever bettered a swimming record set by men.

WELLESLEY "SOPH" CREW PICKED TO WIN INTER-CLASS RACES

CALIFORNIA PAYS MORE TAXES THAN 12 STATES GET

California corporations and individuals reported more income, and paid federal tax on it in 1921, than the combined income reported by the other twelve big western states, according to a survey completed yesterday by Collector Rex Goodcell. These states embrace an empire of 1,181,000 square miles of land as against California's area of 158,300 square miles.

"These figures seem unbelieveable, but they are correct," Goodcell declared.

California reported net corporation income of $283,000,000. This amount is greater than the combined total of $278,000,000 reported by the twelve western states of Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming. The combined population of these states is 7,414,700, while that of California is 3,426,536, using the 1920 census.

In net personal income California reported $1,329,000,000, as against a combined total of $1,309,000,000 turned in by Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, Utah, Washington, Wyoming and Colorado.

California corporations paid an income tax of $59,574,000, which was greater than the combined tax of $51,317,000 paid by 13 big western states: Arizona, Idaho, Colorado, Nebraska, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, South Dakota, Oregon, Utah, Washington and Wyoming.

Personal income tax of $50,147,000 was paid by California, as against the combined total of $50,600,000 paid by 14 western states: Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Nevada, New Mexico, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Washington, Wyoming, Colorado, Nebraska and Kansas.

California's total gross corporation and personal income reported was $4,556,000,000, which was greater than the combined amount reported by the group of western states.

In addition to gross corporation and personal income of $4,556,000,000 reported in California, $919,000,000 of gross income was reported by corporations with no net income, making a grand total of $5,475,000,0 of gross corporations and personal net income reported in this state.

CABBAGE STUFFED WITH SAUSAGE

One medium-sized head cabbage, one pound sausage, one-fourth cup tomatoes, one-fourth cup water, one-eighth cup catsup, one-half tablespoon butter, one and one-half tablespoons flour.

Select a head of cabbage which is not too solid. Cook in several quarts of boiling water until cabbage is tender, but not darkened, salting the water when the cabbage is partly done. Make the sausage into eight cakes, seasoning in any way desired, and fry. Scoop out the center of the cabbage, put remainder on a platter and place the sausage on the leaves. Pour over the sausage a sauce made of the tomato, water, catsup, butter, and flour. If necessary, reheat before serving by placing in the oven a few minutes. Save the cabbage which was scooped out, for scalloped or creamed cabbage.

CHIROPRACTORS MAKE STRONG FIGHT

Every Section of Southern California Is Organized

Every section of Southern California will be the battleground election day when more than 10,000 citizens, men and women, unite in a campaign for votes backing the chiropractic bill, November 16, which gives chiropractors of the state the right to a state board composed of members of the chiropractic profession. The statewide campaign will be the final drive of the chiropractors to obtain recognition from the state, ending the numerous legal prosecutions now costing the citizens more than $125,000 yearly.

The workers will be prepared to answer all questions pertaining to the act. They will stress the fact that the board will not increase taxation; in fact will reduce state expenses $125,000 yearly by ending the cost of prosecuting cases in court, cases which do not arise in more than a score of states where chiropractors have won full recognition. They will also cite the fact that reports of chiropractors are now accepted and approved by 84 large insurance companies in the country.

Nearly all of the workers are volunteers, recruited from the ranks of chiropractic patients in each community—A gigantic endorsement of the profession.

George A. Blanchet, local realtor, 117 So. Brand, reports his business has been especially lucrative lately. He has "put over" exchanges in real estate since September second amounting to over $315,000. In fact he has been so busy with this branch of the real estate business (he specializes in exchanges) that he has had to forego much of his work in Glendale, and has opened a branch office at 402 Grant Building, Los Angeles, from which office these last deals were entered in escrow. However, Mr. Blanchet finds business here pretty active, having no less than five new clients at his place in Glendale on Sunday last, three of whom placed deposits on purchases immediately.

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

ABOU BEN ADHEM

(With apologies)

Abou Ben Adhem, may his tribe increase,
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw an angel writing in the night
Names on a stone that shone with living light.
Abou Ben Adhem wondered with much awe
To see the figure writing, and he saw
Names written high for some heroic deed,
In letters that the world might run and read.

Abou Ben Adhem spoke and said: "I pray
What names are written on the stone this way
That men may run and read?" "I write alone,"
The angel said, "men as they would be known.
"How shall I write you down?" Ben Adhem said:
"Write me as one who never once has sped
On crowded highways. One who never ran
By reckless driving into any man.

"Write me as one who had no blinding lights
To drive men into gutters on dark nights.
Write me as one of that fast fading school
Of drivers who obey the Golden Rule,
And who, no matter what the circumstance
Believes in giving others half a chance.

"Write me as one who gave men half the road,
And favored him who had the heavier load.
Write me as one who crossed no boulevard
By plunging in and stepping on it hard.
Write me as one with time to slow, to pause,
To look and to obey the traffic laws.
What place I wonder will you have to give
To one who wants to drive, live and let live."

The angel gasped and said: "In all the plan
Of motoring is there any such a man?
If so, by all the gods may he be blessed
And I will write him first of all the rest."

OLD HOMESTEAD OPENS AT THE T. D. & L.

You might go far and fail to find a more artistic type for Uncle Josh in "The Old Homestead" than Theodore Roberts. The Paramount picture version of the classic will be shown at the T. D. & L. theater today and has a wonderful cast, including besides Mr. Roberts, Harrison Ford, T. Roy Barnes, George Fawcett, Fritzi Ridgway, Kathleen O'Connor, James Mason and others.

Mr. Roberts, with his beard fringing his under jaw, his bucolic clothing and manner, his benevolence and ability to portray such a role, makes the character of Uncle Josh stand out delightfully. James Cruze directed the picture.

NORWEGIAN PRUNE PUDDING

One-half pound prunes, two cups cold water, one cup sugar, one teaspoon lemon juice, rind one-half lemon, one inch piece stick cinnamon, one and one-half cups boiling water, one-third cup cornstarch. Pick over and wash prunes, then soak one hour or more in cold water to cover. Boil until soft in the water in which they have been soaked. Remove the stones; add sugar, lemon juice, rind, cinnamon, boiling water and simmer 15 minutes. Mix cornstarch with enough cold water to pour easily, add to cooked prune mixture and cook five minutes. Remove cinnamon, mold and chill. Serve with plain or whipped cream.

SHE GIVES UP $100,000 TO MARRY

Mrs. Josephine Kryl White & Paul Taylor White

Miss Josephine Kryl, daughter of the famous millionaire Chicago bandmaster, was offered $100,000 by her father if she would foreswear marriage and devote her life to her violin until she was 30. Instead she married Paul Taylor White, Boston musician and composer, whom she met when both were studying under Ysaye. She declared she placed a loving husband, a happy home and babies above wealth and a career. Her father has cut her off, but she is happy in her Back Bay (Boston) home.

COASTWISE LINE CHANGES ITS SCHEDULE

Effective November 1 a change in sailing schedule of the popular coastwise liners, Yale and Harvard, is announced by the local offices of the company, in order to permit of each of these vessels being drydocked in turn for the customary hull cleaning and painting and for such other overhauling as is necessary periodically to maintain these twin floating palaces in that degree of fitness for which they have ever been noted.

Following her arrival from San Francisco Sunday, October 29, the Yale will go to the plant of the Los Angeles Shipbuilding and Drydock corporation for two weeks. During this period the Harvard will sail for San Francisco from Los Angeles every Wednesday, Friday and Monday, commencing Wednesday, November 1, and will sail from San Francisco for Los Angeles every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. In place of the present Thursday's sailing from Los Angeles to San Diego, the sailing will be on the Sundays from November 5 to November 19 inclusive.

On the arrival of the Harvard at Wilmington from San Francisco Wednesday, November 15, after discharging cargo, she will proceed to the yards for similar attention to that given to her sister ship, the Yale, and the Yale will take her place on the coastwise run, maintaining the three weekly sailings each way between Los Angeles and San Francisco up to November 24, when the Harvard will return on the run and increase the sailing schedule to four sailings weekly from Los Angeles on Sundays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays, and four sailings from San Francisco on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays.

The sailings to San Diego from San Francisco and from Los Angeles will be increased commencing November 30 to two each week on Fridays from San Francisco and Saturdays from Los Angeles, and on Wednesdays from San Francisco and Thursdays from Los Angeles, returning northward from San Diego every Friday and Sunday.

The sailing hours from each port will remain as at present, viz.: 4 p. m. for leaving shed 5 at the Wilmington dock of the company in Los Angeles harbor for San Francisco, or 3 p. m. for San Diego; leaving pier 7, San Francisco, for the south at 4 p. m. each sailing day, and leaving San Diego for the north at 9 a. m. on sailing days.

Do You Want Shingle Roofs Outlawed in California?

Then vote no on the State Housing Act, which is up for referendum in the November election.

This amazing act virtually outlaws the shingle roofed house—not merely in the congested districts of cities, but in every town or incorporated community of California. If this State Housing Act becomes a law it will be illegal for you to shingle the roof of a house of any kind, whether bungalow, shack or mansion, within the corporate limits of city or town. You will find yourself paying involuntary tribute to the substitute roofing manufacturers—forced by law to buy a roof which costs twice as much to build and lasts half as long!

Who wants this act?

Not the State Immigration and Housing Commission, which has publicly repudiated the act as unscientific and against the public interest.

Not the workers in the building trades, because the immediate effect of the act, if passed, would be to handicap building operations seriously and reduce employment.

Not the ordinary householder and prospective home-builder of moderate means, who would find himself victimized by higher rents and higher building costs.

Nobody wants the act except the special interests which with incredible effrontery, lobbied it through the last legislature.

The State Housing Act has been accurately described as "a woodpile wrapped around a Nigger."

Unfortunately the joke is on you, or will be, unless you and your friends and your neighbors—the average citizen whose pockets are threatened by this extraordinary piece of legislative buccaneering—go to the polls November 7th in overwhelming numbers and

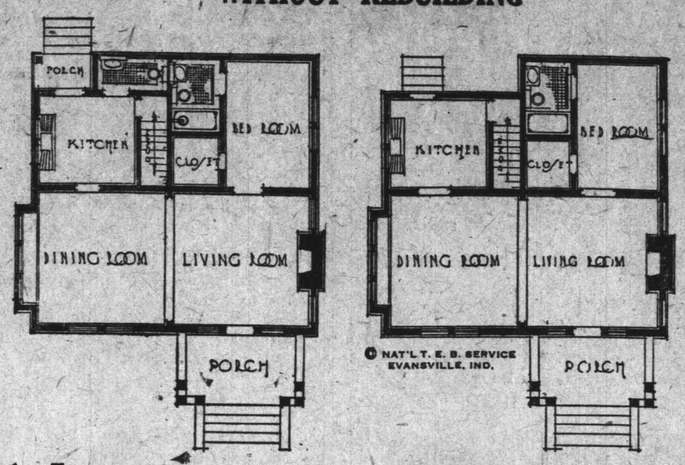
PRACTICAL SUGGESTIONS FOR INEXPENSIVE ADDITIONS TO HOME COMFORT AND HEALTH —WITHOUT REBUILDING



An Enormously Convenient Toilet and Wash Room Added

ORIGINAL PLAN

Four-Room Bungalow Made Far More Comfortable by Very Slight Changes

How often it is provokingly apparent that a "one bathroom" dwelling is short of comfort and convenience.

There can be no questioning the fact that a wealth of added comfort and convenience has been brought to this four-room bungalow by adding to it a toilet and washroom. In fact, the advantages far outweigh the small cost of the improvement, which has added far more than its price to the property value.

For the household every day, and for the occasional visitor too, this extra toilet and lavatory will spare many an embarrassing moment and save many an extra step. The shower for the bath tub is a necessity for bathing comfortably.

The usual one bathroom bungalow is incomplete without the addition of such facilities as were so easily added here.

Medicine or toilet cabinets over each lavatory would soon prove indispensible. No feature of a dwelling approaches giving as much in return for the money expended as good plumbing. Wall and floor coverings require frequent renewals; furniture wears out and requires replacement; outside and inside, the house requires frequent painting; while the plumbing, with a minimum of upkeep expense and a maximum of use and abuse, in most dwellings, is not improved, or added to, after the first installation.

Yet every dollar invested in good plumbing, by comparison with other improvements, is a dollar invested in multiplied comfort.

Come in and see us and let us give you figures on your work.

Truths in Epigram

I see that I am to wait for what will be exhibited by death. —Walt Whitman. 1819-1892.

I do not ask, O Lord, that life may be a pleasant road.—Adelaide Anne Proctor. 1825-1864.

Never was owl more blind than a lover.—Dinah Maria Mulock Craik. 1826-1887.

THE FIRST RAIN

As this is written, the first rain of the season falls softly on a community ready to welcome it. It did not come with bluster and threat. Days before arrival it had thrown out its misty signals of approach. The wise had seen them and made ready the tire chains.

It was Tennyson who wrote of "the useful trouble of the rain." Benignant as the showers may be, they always catch somebody unprepared. They come at a time to help one crop, but damage another. They do not wait on human needs at all. But on the whole they must be regarded as blessings. They may inflict passing injury, but their prolonged absence would mean desolation.

This section is singularly fortunate in the matter of rainfall, think all who have the felicity to dwell therein. There is a season for precipitation of moisture. Disappointment is felt when the fall is below normal. It might be felt were the fall greatly to exceed normal, but this seldom occurs. Even in such case, flood control has reached the dignity of a science. The brawling torrent that once found its way to the sea unhindered, spreading destruction as it went, has been tamed. It is immured, retarded at will; loosed when no hurt could follow. Flood control includes conservation. The old wanton fashion of letting water run to waste has passed.

Summers here are rainless. When the wet season is over, it really is over. It does not stage any come-back, to the upsetting of picnic plans. While it lasts, it is comparatively moderate. Up in the northwest the wet season is far longer, and far more soppy while it remains. Hence the appellation "Webfoot." This is a libel on the Oregonians, however. They do not have webfeet, but are believed to wish occasionally that they did have them.

Well, the first rain, so far, has been a sedate and proper visitor; no deluge, no tempest, but a good-natured exhibition hardly more depressing than dew.

IMPROVING TRANSPORTATION

The problem of transportation must be considered as one of the most important with which the industrial world has to deal. It would be well if international energy could be turned from consideration of war, and division of the spoils, to take up this subject.

What future methods of transportation are to be, must at present remain in part, conjecture. Entirely new systems may be devised by science and invention. The appliances needed at present, and for a long time ahead, include first of all, good roads. The construction of the roads would cost many millions, and be worth the cost. Money put into such an activity would not be wasted. Not only would it bring abundant returns, but it would afford wages to an army of laborers. When money is needed for conduct of a war, there is no stinting. When it is needed to advance the prosperity of a country along lines devoid of spectacularity, and making no frenzied appeal to patriotism, the spirit of liberality is observed to dwindle.

Better rail facilities are an immediate essential. The abundant crops rot in one part of the country, while in another part high prices are paid for similar products, or the products are not obtainable, is a reflection on the intelligence that views the situation and makes no apparent effort to remedy it.

Whatever betterment railroads may make, it is plain that the volume of shipment by trucks, along paved highways, must increase rapidly. California has built many roads with the effect of opening new territory, making the extension of farming possible, giving ready access to market. Yet, large as the total of road mileage, the achievement is hardly more than a beginning. California is but one of forty-eight states, in each of which there are like demands for more and better transportation. The federal government is interested, and the several state governments, while the individual realizes keenly that there is an emergency that must be met.

PAN-AMERICAN COMMERCE

Representative men of this country, Canada, Mexico and Australia have been in conference at Honolulu over the trade of the Pacific. The subject is of peculiar interest to California. Shifting circumstances have changed this coast from its old position. No longer is it the back door. It has every reason to regard itself as the front door, through which an immense volume of traffic will find entry and exit. It is in much closer touch than the Atlantic side with the rapidly developing Orient. Trade with Japan and China is certain to grow to vast proportions. No reason is to be adduced why the legitimate profits accruing to merchant and carrier, should not serve directly to benefit particularly the sections present, by delegate, at the conference. It is significant that a Californian should have been elected chairman.

Part of the purpose of the conference was to stimulate trade, as well as to seek means of guiding it into certain channels. It is not a selfish plan. Prosperity is not a possession to be retained by the group or the individual, but it acts upon the whole structure of business. The great idea is to create the business. Having done this, the benign effects become general. If the world can get itself sedulously enough engaged in proper industrial and commercial activities, it will have less time for quarrels and for war.

A fair share of Pacific trade would help the people of this coast. Helping them, it would extend its influence indefinitely, to the promotion of prosperity, and the security of peace.

Use of radio has gone beyond the point generally understood by the public. It is not an agency for emergencies alone, nor yet for pleasure except in an unimportant fashion. It has reached such development that there is serious suggestion that in sending the news of the world, it may supplant the ocean cable.

It is not a good plan to give rides to youngsters who stand by the road and beg to be taken into automobiles. The chances are that the boys should be at home, and that the proposed lift would take them in some other direction. Moreover, the driver becomes responsible in case the passenger meets with injury.

A man convicted of passing forged checks in Tacoma, begged the judge to send him up for ten years because he was weary of a cold, cruel world. The judge, however, named a term of ninety days, whereupon the prisoner doubtless observed the world to be colder and more cruel than ever.

The mortuary record of dry agents demonstrates that some of them tried earnestly to enforce the law. In the effort 125 have been killed and 3500 wounded. The whisky of the bootlegger is not the only deadly weapon the outlaw carries.

STOP THIS WASTE

By DR. FRANK CRANE

The other day the postmaster at Chicago had placards put on the motor vehicles operating in the postal service reading as follows:

STOP THIS WASTE!
25,000,000 Pieces of Mail Annually Are Delayed or Not Delivered at All Because They Are Incorrectly Addressed or Improperly Packed.

The postal authorities call our attention to the fact that there are 25,000,000 pieces of mail that they must handle three to seven times oftener than they would have to handle them if they had been properly prepared.

And even after they have exhausted every means of identification and salvage they succeed in delivering only slightly more than one-fifth of that amount.

And this does not include vast quantities of circulars and newspapers which are not properly addressed, and which are destroyed because they cannot be delivered.

In Chicago there is one building that is used as a storage place for mail of obvious value and for mail of first class which cannot be delivered. Twice a year the contents are auctioned off, because there is no way of finding the owners. In this building are bins of shoes, quantities of clothing, dress goods, automobile parts and tires, sporting goods, suit cases—everything from a bird cage to a mouse trap. These are lost to both the one who sent them and the one who should receive them because somebody was careless in tying a knot, or used flimsy wrapping paper, or put on a defective address.

Nearly 300 employes are engaged in correcting the common, presentable errors of the people. The only reason the postoffice can stand this drain of carelessness upon its resources is that the people pay the bill.

There ought to be a general campaign of education with the object of impressing upon the people the importance of properly preparing and addressing anything they put into the mail box.

Another waste, caused by sheer thoughtlessness, arises from the custom of many business houses holding their mail until the close of the business day, when they release it to the postoffice in a perfect deluge. All day, cancelling machines, distributing cases, and the other facilities for handling mail lie practically idle, and just after 5 p. m. they are taxed beyond their capacity. If people would simply change their mailing habits to the extent of depositing their mail even two hours earlier than they do at present, it would revolutionize the postal service.

This article is written in the hope that many people will adopt the idea of paying better attention to their mail matter.

After all, the postoffice is the great public servant, and it behooves every citizen of the country to make that servant as efficient as possible.

Much of the criticism levelled at the postoffice is due to the carelessness of the general public.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

A POSTPONED CORRECTION

Did you discover the error in "The Right Word" on October 3? There was one which was corrected the following day. But there was another, and no mention has been made of it to date for two reasons: one, to learn how many would detect the error, which was made very glaring; the other, to emphasize the correct use of shall and will, should and would.

"Just a Reader," Spokane, Wash., wrote "Is the following proper: 'If you would have had to go'?" The reply was in the affirmative with "Would have had is the past perfect tense of the potential mode."

The truth is would have had is the past perfect tense of the potential mode, but it should not be used as "Just a Reader" used it. The following is correct: You would have had my help if you had asked it; You would have had to go if I had been there. But to say "If you would have had to go" is incorrect, for the construction implies a situation contrary to fact involved, with a prediction in the past. The correct expression is "If you had had to go."

This article is being written sometime in advance of publication, and, consequently, there may be some who will have discovered this error by the time this correction appears, and to them the foregoing explanation is indicted.

Shall is used in the first person, singular and plural, to express simple futurity. Will is used in the second and third persons to express simple futurity. Shall is used in the second and third person to express determination, command, decision. Will is used in the first person to express determination, decision, or choice.

The foregoing rules for the use of shall and will are applicable to should and would.

Examples:

I shall feel hurt if you do not come.
I will be there.
I will select the first.
You will find it pleasant work.
He shall know the worst.
I should help him.
I would do it if I were you.
You would go if you knew all.
He should go at once.

Don't stand around waiting for things to come your way.
If things do not come your way, go the way of the things you want.
Pursue them and capture them and hold them.
By your own efforts.
Don't ask somebody to make the way easy for you.
It is not the easy way that will strengthen you.
It is the rough way.

If you want to develop muscle and wind and strength you go out on the mountain trail.
You don't bump up and down on a feather bed.
Effort makes for strength.
Beware of gifts.
They may tickle your vanity.
But they are likely to sap your strength.

If you hold your job merely by currying favor with the Boss, you lose your job when the Boss goes.
If you lose your job because you are worth while, it does not matter when you lose one.
You will get another.
Beware of the flattery that whispers in your ear while it picks your pockets.
The price you pay for it is too high.
Seek truth.
The flatterer does not know how to tell it.

When you earn what you have and owe no man for it, you can be independent.
When you owe for all you have, you are a constant debtor to the giver.
And you may have to pay the debt.
If not in goods, then in self respect.

Don't ask somebody to carry you over the hard places.
That is what a child does.
Don't be a child all your life.
A man fights through the hard places.
And the more hard places you fight through, the better man you are.

Don't be afraid to say you can't afford something.
At least that is honest.

Songs of the Poets

Sea Fever—By John Masefield (1874——)

I must go down to the sea again, to the lonely sea and the sky,
And all I ask is a tall ship, and a star to steer her by;
And the wheel's kick, and the wind's song and the white sail's shaking,
And a gray mist on the sea's face, and a gray dawn breaking.

I must go down to the seas again, for the call of the running tide
Is a wild call and a clear call that may not be denied;
And all I ask is a windy day with the white clouds flying,
And the flung spray and the blown spume, and the sea-gulls crying.

I must go down to the sea again, for the call gypsy life,
To the gull's way, and the whale's way where the wind's like a whetted knife;
And all I ask is a merry yarn from a laughing fellow rover,
And quiet sleep and a sweet dream when the long trick's over.

INVENT NEW METHOD FOR HELIUM RECOVERY

A simpler and cheaper method of recovering pure helium from natural gas in only one liquefying operation has been perfected by the U. S. bureau of mines, Dr. H. Foster Bain, director, has announced in a statement to the American Chemical society that is interested in the use of nonflammable helium instead of hydrogen in our airships.

Whereas the helium plants erected during the war and the government Fort Worth plant now in operation put the helium through two processes to make it of sufficient purity for balloon use, trial runs made within the last month in the bureau of mines cryogenic laboratory using the easier, more direct method.

"The development indicates that commercial production of helium for lighter-than-air craft is probably feasible," says Dr. Bain.

The new achievement consists in more quickly and more completely liquefying all of the nitrogen and other contaminating gas in the natural gas containing helium. The helium-bearing natural gases are compressed and as the flammable methane and other gases all liquefy at higher temperatures than helium, when the process reaches a very low temperature only the very pure helium remains. A semi-commercial plant will next be erected to bring into quantity production the successful laboratory method.

Large quantities of helium are wasting into the air every minute through the burning of natural gas containing helium. It is expected that congress will consider legislation at the coming special session to capture this irreplacable natural resource.

Helium-research work is directed by the United States Helium board, composed of: Lieut. Com. F. M. Kraus, representing the navy; Col. R. F. Fravel representing the army, and Dr. R. B. Moore, chief chemist of the bureau of mines, H. S. Mulliken, production engineer, alternate. The actual work of development was directed by a group of men known as the board of helium engineers, with the following membership: M. H. Roberts, Franklin Railway Supply Co.; R. C. Tolman, physical chemist of the California Institute of Technology; W. L. DeBaufre, University of Nebraska; Edgar Buckingham of the U. S. bureau of standards and John W. Davis of the bureau of mines.

Several laboratory staffs co-operated in the work, researches having been made under the direction of Dr. Frederick Keyes at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Dr. Harvey N. Davis, Harvard University, and by the workers in the cryogenic laboratories under the direction of Dr. R. B. Moore and Dr. L. L. Shaw, assistant chief chemist. The cryogenic laboratory located in Department of Interior building at Washington is the best equipped workshop in the world for experiments and studies on liquifaction problems.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

PINCHOT ON LIQUOR

[Des Moines Register]

If there is any reason for the notion that the big industrial centers of the east are bound to have liquor, Gifford Pinchot is certainly inviting trouble by his campaign in Pennsylvania.

In one of his most recent speeches he goes far beyond the demands of his platform which he would hardly do if in fact sentiment is running the other way. He says:

"I am determined not only to drive the saloon out of Pennsylvania, but to prevent the bootleggers from using the highways of the state for the transportation of contraband liquor.

"I have been informed that much illicit liquor is being transported over our highways. When I am governor, if the state police are not able to prevent such violation of the law, I will know the reason why.

"Some people may not like my views on the saloon and the bootleggers, but I am determined to do just what I say in relation to both of them. And I want it understood that when I discuss the liquor question I am just as dry in a wet town as I am in a dry town."

Everybody who knows anything about politics knows that even such an enthusiast as Mr. Pinchot would not needlessly court trouble in a campaign that means so much for so many other causes in which he is interested. For Mr. Pinchot did not make his campaign for the nomination on the liquor issue, that is something that has come up later. The only conclusion anybody can draw is that liquor sentiment in the industrial centers is much smaller than it is reported to be. Many more in states like Pennsylvania are glad that liquor is gone than we are hearing about.

In any event, it is worthy of note, now when so much is being done to break down the anti-liquor sentiment of the country, that in the great industrial state of Pennsylvania the republican candidate for governor, who undoubtedly will be elected, is talking so boldly and so definitely against liquor.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Correspondents send a long story about a rebuke administered to Theodore Roosevelt Jr. He was on a train, and was smoking in a compartment where such indulgence is forbidden. The conductor called his attention to the breach of rules, told him where he could go to enjoy his smoke, and young Roosevelt went.

HENRY JAMES

This was an incident not worth mentioning. It might have happened to any careless devotee of the weed. The courteous act of the conductor in enforcing regulations could not have been construed into an affront by any gentleman. Certainly Mr. Roosevelt did not so construe it.

Later the conductor was informed of the identity of the passenger, and is said to have been greatly embarrassed. It is at this point that respect for him begins to vanish. There was no reason why he should have felt embarrassed. Mr. Roosevelt had no more right to privileges than inhered in any other traveler. He is altogether a human person, and doubtless the smoke he creates has quite the ordinary odor and effect. The conductor undertook to apologize, showing himself to partake of the character of the sycophant. Naturally he was assured that no apology was necessary, but he ought to have known this in advance.

* * *

By the way, upon the death of a father, it is customary for the eldest son, named for him, to drop the "jr." This has not been done in the Roosevelt case and probably will not be done for a long time. Years will pass, and a new generation appear on the scene, before the name "Theodore Roosevelt" shall cease to vision forth the figure of the strenuous President.

Damages have just been awarded to a man for having been run over by a house. The mishap in question may be listed among strange accidents. It might be assumed that the speed of a house on wheels would permit the individual to side-step. It appears that this wandering domicile was making its way along the street, its approach insufficiently announced by lights. The driver of an automobile saw the dwelling in his projected line of travel, and stopped his machine. He thought the house was stationary, too, but it wasn't. It hit a wallop that junked his machine, and almost junked him. It seems perfectly proper that a house that goes on a nocturnal tear should be fined as disorderly.

WATCHING THE PARADE

BY JOHN PILGRIM

My little cousin Mary—the red-headed one that used to get called down by her mother because her dance frocks were cut too low—came home on a visit this week. And I was shocked. Honest to salt mackerel, I never saw matrimony and motherhood produce such a change in a girl. If I thought it was any of my business, or that either party would listen to me even if it isn't, I'd tell Mary and her man what I think about it.

"It is a little dull where we live," said Mary.

She used to be a Holy Terror, if you get me—out too late, socks rolled too low, waists a bit too thin—but for all that the nicest kid you ever knew. She just wanted to live with all the life there was in her. She worked and danced and sang and played—well—vividly. That's the best word I can find for it. Then she married a kid who loved her enormously, and still does, and they hived themselves in a little up-country village. His business is getting along to a point where profits are beginning to come in. Up to this time they have just made a living. The two babies are the sweetest youngsters you ever saw——

But, confound it, Mary isn't Mary any more. She is tired and a little depressed and a little sad. It's a fine thing for a wife to bear her share of the load—she isn't a wife if she doesn't; she is a haremite—but it isn't a good thing for her to be kept in close confinement all her young days.

"I have felt the need of something to change the current of my thoughts," she confessed.

Mary and her man love each other, of course. But he is sacrificing everything to success. Night after night he meets men downtown on business and the red-headed wife stays at home with the babies. He may have a vacation each year because he needs it, but she may not because she cannot get away. Yet she needs it even more.

I'd as lief work in a powder mill as be in the company of those desperately active babies for twenty-four hours.

It isn't fair to Mary. What is worse, that sort of dull monotony is charged with trouble. I wouldn't like to see a handsome troubadour come along right now.

An Important Industry in Danger

What the Anti-Shingle Joker of the State Housing Act Means to California

The Burnett Bill, passed at the last session of the legislature, and known as the State Housing Act, is up for referendum in the November elections.

The bill has been accurately described as "a woodpile wrapped around a nigger." If it becomes law, it will be illegal for you or anybody else to build a home with a shingle roof on it—bungalow, shack or mansion—in any city, town or incorporated community in the state of California. The anti-shingle joker would benefit hugely the manufacturers of substitute roofings, at the expense of the average taxpayer and prospective home builder of moderate means.

And it would practically destroy an industry in which millions of Californian capital are invested and which gives employment, directly and indirectly, to many thousands of people.

California is the fourth largest producer and the third largest user of shingles in the United States. Situated up and down the state, from the Oregon line to Santa Cruz, there are twenty-six different mills devoted wholly or in part to the manufacture of shingles.

The State Housing Act has been publicly repudiated by the State Immigration and Housing Commission. It is unscientific, destructive to an important industry of the state, and patently against the public interest.

But it will become a law and you will have to obey it, no matter how much it costs you in money and comfort, unless you and your friends go to the polls November 7th and

COMPETITION BY LEGISLATION

Competition by legislation appears on the ballot this year under the title of State Housing Bill, No. 5, on the referendum propositions.

The voter is asked to make a cross under "yes" and thereby hand over all the roofs of growing California, whether it be a stately or a humble home building, to the manufacturers of patent roofing.

Startling? Yet a truthful statement.

That little "yes" cross would bar anyone from putting a roof on his or her own home—that did not pay tribute to the manufacturers of some form of patent roofing.

IT WOULD HENCEFORTH BE AS CRIMINAL AS BOOTLEGGING TO ATTEMPT TO ROOF ANY KIND OF A HOUSE WITH ANYTHING BUT A PATENT ROOFING.

The attempt to pass such an act, which is an insult to the intelligence of the voters, the home owners and builders of California, is brazen, callous, shrewd in its knowledge that voters are not always thinkers.

Usually at this time of the year the desks of editors are crowded with propaganda supporting measures of this kind, urging their good points, stating reasons for their conception, submitted in the hope of carrying conviction and receiving editorial support.

NO MATTER OF ANY KIND SUPPORTING THIS MEASURE HAS BEEN RECEIVED IN THIS OFFICE—AND SO FAR AS THE GLENDALE DAILY PRESS HAS BEEN ABLE TO LEARN, NONE HAS BEEN RECEIVED IN ANY NEWSPAPER OFFICE.

If you, Mr. Voter, are willing to stultify yourself, your intelligence and your personal privilege and that of your fellow citizen to support legislation which seeks to do by law what fair competition apparently has been unable to do; if you are willing to halt the process of home building, town building and the growth of Glendale and of California—vote for proposition No. 5 on the ballot.

And—if you do—it would be well to prepare to vote soon to make criminal the use of any paint not patented, of any nail not described in more special interest legislation of like minded manufacturers. In fact, a vote for the measure would upset the entire theory of competitive business and make it merely a mother of legislation.

COUNTY CHARITY DEPARTMENT ASKS VOTES

Superintendent Seeks Passage of $7,000,000 Bond Issue

Near the close of 1921 there was published a copy of an appeal to the officials and voters of the county to provide some relief for the overcrowded conditions existent at the county hospital, county farm and Olive View sanitorium; in fact, throughout the department of charities.

The conditions have not changed for the better. However, there is this hope for the future:

On the coming election day, November 7, there is to be placed before the voters of Los Angeles county the question of a bond issue in the sum of several million dollars to provide, insofar as such a sum can provide, the needed additional facilities and personnel.

Upon various occasions during the past several years attention has been called to the over-crowded condition of the Los Angeles county hospital and the Los Angeles county farm, the insufficient personnel and the rapid increase in the sum of seven million dolsons assisted or cared for by the outdoor relief division of the department of charities. In the opinion of those directly in contact the situation has now become so acute that I feel compelled to submit a resume of conditions and respectfully urge your prompt and serious consideration thereof looking toward relief.

Norman R. Martin, superintendent of charities, reported as follows:

The average daily patient population for the fiscal year ending July 30, 1921, was 1038; for the year ending June 30, 1922, similar average was 1133, or a total daily increase of 94 patients. The daily average of employees during the last fiscal year was 688, and the average number of patients to each employee, 1.65.

If Los Angeles county hospital were to increase its employee personnel so as to make the ratio between patients and each employee average the same as in other large similar hospitals, over 200 additional employees would be required.

Further, the training course for nurses under the state law has been reduced from three years to 28 months, resulting in a considerable decrease in practical work performed by these student nurses, which has to be equalized by employing more regular employees.

One of the immediate results of the congestion and shortage of beds in the hospital has been the restriction of admissions to acute cases. Many patients formerly admitted must now of necessity be looked after at home or elsewhere. However, notwithstanding the fact that the restriction has been carried out to the very final degree possible, the situation continues acute and we are unable to care for many patients urgently in need of attention.

The population of Los Angeles county has increased conservatively 50 per cent since 1914 and during this eight-year period no additional patient beds have been provided, except 50 in psychopathic and 100 in Olive View sanitorium, all restricted to the care of a specific type of illness.

There are 45,000 persons handled yearly through the hospital receiving room, but only 15,000 of these are admitted as bed patients. A large proportion of the remaining 30,000 could be treated with a fair degree of satisfaction through an out-patient department. This figure emphasizes the importance of establishing at once such a department of competent organization and capacity.

A children's building is needed. At present the little ones are scattered about in various wards and many times cared for in the same wards as adults without proper sex and age segregation.

As more patients are admitted more employes are required and this necessitates more housing for workers. This point must not be overlooked.

County Farm

The average daily inmate population for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1921, was 766 persons; and for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, similar average was 924, or an increase during the year of 158 persons per day. Psychopathic patients admitted through the court show a much greater percentage of increase.

The point to be stressed at the Farm is the excessive over-crowding. Extra beds are on porches, in corridors and storerooms, and in the loft of the work-stock stable, and in all these places the beds are crowded, often to the extent of being down the aisles. We are receiving daily applications and are unable to admit many of these worthy applicants. Further, because of the severe congestion at the hospital there are being housed at the Farm many persons of a type which the present construction at that institution is not designed to care for. There are 100 inmates on the general wards who must receive food tray service, whereas the Farm is equipped only for those able to go to the dining rooms.

No new buildings have been constructed at the Farm for the care of patients since 1916, except a psychopathic addition caring for 100 persons and a building for 80 women. The latter-mentioned building was completed at the beginning of the present calendar year. It was completely occupied at once, there being transferred to it from the Outdoor Relief division's jurisdiction a total of 60 women then being cared for on the outside. The result is that we have no more vacant beds for women at the Farm and are obliged to care for large numbers on the outside, just as we were when the new women's building was begun.

Olive View Sanitorium

This sanitorium for ambulatory tuberculosis cases was opened in October, 1920, capacity 100 beds. It is fulfilling a long-felt want but its capacity has been absorbed. Construction has just been begun on addition ward buildings, which are very welcome, but these do not meet more than fifty per cent of the necessities. Sanatorium facilities for children are entirely lacking.

Outdoor Relief

This department contemplates relief furnished to unfortunates outside of institutions. There has been a very large increase in the demands, making a material addition to expense. No building program is involved, but provision should be made from time to time for additional employes as the number of persons assisted increases. Our present staff is inadequate to prosecute the best constructive effort.

The economy of operation throughout the department we feel is commendable. The hospital is operated at a less per capita expense than any similar institution in the United States, this statement being supportable by available statistics. Notwithstanding this fact, it prides itself on giving first-class "service with a heart." The same comment can be made truthfully about the farm. In addition the farm revenues have increased from $23,000 in 1914-15 to $140,000 in 1921, and during 1919-20 the net per capita cost was 10 cents per day less than similar cost in 1914; this in spite of an increase of over 100 per cent in the cost of food and medical supplies. Constructive work has been accomplished in the outdoor relief division at a minimum of expense. For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, out of each dollar expended 87 cents went for actual relief and only 13 cents for overhead expenses.

The department endeavors at all times to restrict those assisted to residents of Los Angeles county, but this is not always possible. From a humanitarian standpoint we cannot refuse to give reasonable assistance to the ill and destitute, and we believe it is the desire of the taxpayers throughout the county that this be done. It must be borne in mind that many of these needy ones who are not residents of our county come to us as a result of the extensive advertising of Southern California by the various chambers of commerce, the commercial clubs, railroads and citizens; and if the economic returns are sufficiently great to justify the burden of the unfortunates who come with those more fortunate, then the public and the taxpayers may feel that the end justifies the means. But in the meantime it is imperative that the appalling over-crowding in the institutions of the department of charities be relieved.

This entire subject has been exhaustively discussed with the board of supervisors and through them with various public bodies, with the result that the question of a bond issue of seven million dollars for the department of charities will be placed upon the ballot at the election November 7, 1922, and if you are properly convinced of the necessities, you are earnestly requested to vote for the issue and urge others to do likewise. It is realized that it is unfair and practically impossible to take care of these conditions by direct taxation, but as the building improvements will serve for many years it is more proper to spread the expense over those years through the bond issue.

When this money is available I suggest that we provide construction approximately as follows:

DUTY

The duty of a retail lumber yard does not consist only in selling lumber. To consider carefully the individual requirements of each customer, to recommend only those materials which satisfactionly fill those requirements.

To conscientiously advise our customers on the various building problems that may arise.

In addition to the above the use of our complete filing system is available, by means of which the prospective builder can get in touch with contractors, carpenters, builders, plasterers and cement workers.

These are functions which this firm consider its elementary duties.
